"German Syrup"

A Farmer at Edom, Texas, Says:

"We are six in family. We live in a place where we are subject to violent Colds and Lung Troubles. I have used German Syrup for six years successfully for Sore Throat, Cough, Cold, Hoarseness, Pains in the Chest and Lungs, and spitting-up of Blood. I have tried many different kinds of cough Syrups in my time, but let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine—German Syrup is the best. That has been my experience. If you use it once, you will go back to it whenever you need it. It gives total relief and is a quick cure. My advice to everyone suffering with Lung Troubles is—Try it. You will soon be convinced. In all the families where your German Syrup is used we have no trouble with the Lungs at all. It is the medicine for this country."

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

"Spitting" a Neighbor.

The workmen employed at one of the chair making works in an English town were cutting up a large cherry tree at the circular saw bench when something squirted in the sawyer's face and ran over the bench in all directions. The engine was stopped, and an examination showed that the saw had struck a cavity in the tree and liberated a considerable quantity of quicksilver, afterward estimated as half a gill. The log was carefully examined, and it was found that many years previously a hole had been bored in a slanting downward direction through the heart of the tree, the quicksilver poured in and the hole carefully plugged. The rings of the tree showed that it was ninety years old, and that after the hole had been plugged the growth had covered the head of the plug with several inches of solid wood.

As it was known the tree came out of an old cherry orchard at Allerton, Yorkshire, where yearly "a cherry feast" used to be held, it was thought the quicksilver had been put in the tree in connection with some old ceremony, but later it was found that up to thirty or forty years ago quicksilver was thus employed to kill fruit or other trees by those who had "grudges" against their neighbors. It was usual to do this in the dead of night. A piece of bark was first carefully taken off, the hole bored, quicksilver poured in, the hole plugged, and last the bit of bark was carefully replaced. The tree from the next rising of the sap began to wither. In the present case the attempt was a failure, for except where the quicksilver had lain (it had not penetrated some inches beyond the end of the boring) the tree was sound.—Notes and Queries.

Hopton's Compromise.

Near a town in the southern part of Georgia lived Mr. Branscombe, a wealthy fruit grower, who was embroiled in a perpetual feud with a poor trucker named Hopton. The feud was based on Hopton's hog, which committed havoc in Branscombe's garden, and Branscombe finally shot the animal.

War was at once declared by Hopton, not against Branscombe personally, but against all his belongings. He tore down fences, wrung the necks of chickens, smeared Branscombe's front steps with paint, and continued this petty persecution until the fruit grower was exasperated beyond endurance.

He set a watch on Hopton, and finally caught him in the act of pouring turpentine into the pump. The next day Branscombe swore out a warrant for Hopton's arrest for malicious mischief, and it was served that afternoon.

Hopton resisted violently, but finally calmed down, and while on his way to the office of the justice of the peace expressed a wish to see Mr. Branscombe and "settle the whole affair." The constable was an obliging fellow, and acceded to this request.

"Kunnel," said Hopton, when brought before Branscombe, "let's compromise this matter."

"Very well," assented Branscombe readily. "During the past six months you have committed damages to the extent of $200. What is your proposition?" "It's this, kunnel," drawled Hopton. "You drop this prosecuting me, and I'll let ye off."—Youth's Companion

The Origin of "Grog."

Until the time of Admiral Vernon the British sailors had their allowance of brandy or rum served out to them unmixed with water. This plan was found to be attended with inconvenience on some occasions on account of a shortage in the brandy locker, and the admiral, therefore, ordered that in the fleet he commanded the spirits should be mixed with water before being passed around among the men. This innovation at first gave great offense to the hardy sailors, who had been used to taking their drinks "raw," the result being that Vernon became very unpopular with his men.

To add to his unpopularity the admiral, who was conscious of the immense responsibility that rested upon him, became morose and gloomy, often walking the decks for hours without speaking or looking either to the right or left. In these taciturn moods he always wore an immense gingham coat thrown loosely over his shoulders; this resulted in the sailors nicknaming him "Old Grog," and the term soon came to be applied to the weak mixture stintlingly given out to the men, who had formerly looked for a regular allowance of "pure stuff." "Grog" became quite popular after a time, but not until the original mixer of the formula had "gone to his reward."—St. Louis Republic.

A Horse with Eight Feet.

There is a horse on James McCloud's farm in South Dakota which has eight feet, otherwise it is perfectly formed in every respect. Not until the fetlock joint is reached in the descent from the shoulder to the foot is there any difference between this horse and any other. At the pastern joint, however, the branch begins, and two perfectly formed hoofs are seen on each of the four legs.—St. Louis Republic.

The Esquimaux dog will eat almost any of the dried fruits. The sour or acid fruits, as the orange, lemon, lime, shaddock, etc., as well as the sour plums and the bitter olives, are rarely eaten.

THEY LIKE PRIZE FIGHTS.

The Salt Lake Herald says: "Perhaps another century the student of American history will marvel what kind of civilization his forefathers had, when he reads the account of some such prize fight as that between Slavin and Kilrain in New York yesterday. He will wonder what kind of a thing a 'rib roaster' is until the further detail shall enlighten him that the Australian pounded away on Jake's ribs, his blows being sickening." And then he will ask what this punishment was all about. It will probably require considerable persuasion on the part of the historian to convince the student of that time that one man 'banged' the other on the head in a gallant manner, as the dispatch has it, wholly for the edification of a miscellaneous gathering, among which were some of the most prominent men of New York; and for the sake of money. With the rapid enlightenment of the world it will probably not take more than a hundred years to taboo men whose sole occupation in life, and a very remunerative occupation too, it is to hammer one another to the ropes. And then 'Slavin' shot out his right, caught Jake under the ear, and down he went like a log. 'T. bleau! At one time during the encounter it is announced 'he managed to stagger' to his feet, but he received another terrible blow which felled him to the stage painfully and unresistibly. Jake managed to stagger to his knees and the gong saved him. But those terrible heart blows had evidently done their work. Blood was pouring from his nose which was said to be broken. 'Four times,' the bulletin scores, 'did Jake go to grass' in the fourth round. In the fifth round the other man had his inning and we are informed, nearly put his antagonist 'to sleep.' But while he landed a neat and scientific upper-cut beneath Slavin's jaw, his triumph was only momentary, for directly the Australian resumed his terrible stroke and Jake was latter that 'only a chopping-block for him.' Well, Greece had her Olympian games and Rome her gladiator fights, while Spain had her bull fights; why not America her stegging matches? Perhaps it is the animal that is in us which demands such exhibitions of brute force. Certain it is that the people like it or they would not patronize it as they do; nor would they be so eager to hear the minutest details of a fight.

NAVY YARD REFORM.

Secretary Tracy has given notice that he intends to reform navy yard abuses. The necessity for changing the present method of conducting the yards was pointed out by the Secretary at a banquet at Boston a month or two ago, when he said, what everybody knew, that the yards were mere political machines conducted in the interest of politicians instead of the public. The Secretary has selected the Mare Island Navy Yard in which to inaugurate the proposed reforms. The positions of foremen and master mechanics are declared vacant on the first of next August. An examination of applicants for filling these positions will be held at the navy yard beginning June 22, and will be open to all who can give evidence of experience in conducting the kind of work at which they seek employment, and who are citizens of the United States.

What a change that is from the days of tap-tum-tum it kets, when no workmen who dared to assert his manhood and vote for the men and the principles of his choice was permitted to work for the United States at Mare Island. What a change it is even from the pre-regulations, which make the recommendation of a politician more effective than the skill of an artisan in getting him employment. Now the principal qualifications are being a member of the party in power and having the endorsement of a Congressman. Heretofore, if the order of the Secretary is carried into effect, they will consist of being an American citizen and a competent mechanic.—Eureka Sentinel

An exchange says before ex-President Cleveland went to the country he had a chat with Senator Gorman, who, it is said, came to the city expressly to see him. Near friends of the ex-President are reported to have said recently that in the case of the failure of Cleveland to secure the Democratic nomination they would favor the nomination of Gorman rather than to submit to the nomination of Gov. Hull.

The Eight-Hour Law.

SALT LAKE, June 20.—The controversy over the eight-hour law has been brought to an issue. Attorney General Ives received a letter this morning from President Martindale of the State Penitentiary Board of Directors refusing to comply with the law. The letter is in reply to one written by the Attorney General at the request of the Governor demanding that the Board of Directors see the law rigidly enforced. President Martindale says he does not consider that the law applies to the Penitentiary. It is possible the Governor will instruct the Attorney General to institute quo warranto proceedings against the Board in the Supreme Court.

THE AMERICAN DERBY.

A Great Outpouring of People. Special to the Journal.

CHICAGO, June 20.—Death to one horse and $19,000 to another; that was the American derby of 1891. A scarlet flash on the horizon, fifty thousand people breathless, a gleam of white beneath the wire, and the richest stake race in the West was over. It was won by Strathmeath, New York's favorite. Whether in points of horses, famous jockeys, magnificent of fashionable display and marvelous outpouring of people, as well as sensational incidents and a bulky purse, probably no such race was ever witnessed this side of the Alleghenies. Certainly not in Chicago. So great was the crush that hundreds of ladies were wedged helplessly in the enormous mob of male sports that packed the lawn solid in front of the betting ring. No aisle or stairway in the grand stand afforded an inch of standing room. The galleries and roof were black with people, while the approaches from east to end of the stretch, including even the club house grounds, were full almost to suffocation. In the field showed line after line of all manner of vehicles loaded down with people. The confusion in the bookmakers' quarters as the time for the big race approached was the worst ever witnessed in Washington Park, and the bedlam scarcely mitigated, spread to other portions of the grounds. The roof in front of the bookmakers' heads, in front of whom clamored thousands of eager gamblers, had by this time become thick with other thousands. The police fearing the frail supports would give way, and might perhaps a loss of scores of lives, attempted to clear the platform. Many jumped promptly into the mass of people on the lawn. Suddenly the supports cranked, as the line of police forced back the crowd on masses, and the fact was clearly demonstrated that it was less perilous to allow the reckless mob to remain unmolested. The hubbub was at its height when the horses came out for the derby, the favorites being warmly received. This is the way they were recorded:

Snowball, 122; Garrison and Passara, 129; Taral, post betting 4 to 1; Forerunner, 125; Allen, 10 to 1; Lodowick, 122; Hill, 15 to 1; Michael, 125; Fitzpatrick, 3 to 1; Kingman 129; Isaac Lewis, 4 to 1; High Tariff 127; Kaley and Post Scout 115; Overton 12 to 1; Valiera 127; Brittan 12 to 1; Strathmeath, 122; G. Covington, 3 to 1; Balgowan was scratched about an hour before the race.

As the last bugle sounded for the race a faithful crush began in fruitless attempts of the less fortunate to secure advantageous positions from which to view the race. Starter Sheridan mounted his box and lectured the boys. Then the horses were placed in line. At the third trial the horses moved in a solid phalanx toward the starter, the red flag descended, a mighty roar went up from the multitude, and then the top top thousand realized the great derby was on. Forerunner jumped to the front and was closely followed by Passara, and Post Scout led to the first turn. Lodowick was last, five lengths away. Coming down the stretch Post Scout had forged to the front, Strathmeath moving up to second place and Kingman third. Pausing the stand these positions were steadily maintained. At the turn Michael had worked to the front and set a merry pace down the back stretch, Post Scout still second, while Kingman and Strathmeath went back to the bunch. It was at this point the sensation of the day took place. High Tariff dropped dead. Meantime the pace of the others was getting hotter and hotter. They swung into the stretch with Post Scout in the front, Strathmeath second, and Michael third. Overton now began to ride, tiring the leader desperately and for a moment it looked as if he must win. But Covington slyly brought Strathmeath up by the outer rail with a rush and won without the use of whip or spur, Post Scout was second, half a length before Kingman, who was third. Time 2:49 1/4.

Shot for Ten Cents' Worth of Morphine. Special to the Journal.

MONTREY, June 20.—Charles Hawes, a painter, shot Edward W. Wagner, a drug gist, formerly of San Jose, last night, the ball entering the abdomen and inflicting a dangerous wound. Hawes purchased ten cents' worth of morphine from Wagner and then refused to pay for it. Wagner, after insisting on payment, ordered Hawes from the store, when he drew a pistol and fired.

The Democrats of Utah Will Organize. Special to the Journal.

SALT LAKE, June 20.—The Democratic Territorial Committee met here to-day and voted 15 to 4 to organize a Democratic party in the Territory. THE EXECUTIVE SILVER COMMITTEE.

Senators Jones and Stewart Giving Advice. Special to the Journal.

NEW YORK, June 20.—The National Executive Silver Committee was in session again yesterday. Senators Jones and Stewart were at the hotel and gave the committee the benefit of their advice. As a result of their deliberations the committee gave out a statement this evening to the public, in which they call the attention of the country to the object lesson which is being exhibited in the desperate struggle of great financial institutions on both sides of the Atlantic to increase the gold reserves in order to avoid bankruptcy and ruin. The committee asks "in time of profound peace and abundant harvests, why should all great banking institutions attribute this stagnation and hard times to scarcity of money while they are exerting all their powers to make money scarce by adhering to the gold standard when they admit that there is not enough gold to maintain business and the credit of the commercial world. For eighteen years the basis of credit in gold standard has been extended and the production of gold has fallen off. While the structure of credit has been growing proportionally larger and more insecure, until the relation of credit to actual money, as disclosed in Baring's failure, has alarmed the world and started anew the scramble for gold that threatens all business undertakings and stalks as a menace to every legitimate enterprise.

If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar medicine, possessing, by virtue of its peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation, curative power superior to any other article. A Boston lady who knew what she wanted, and whose example is worthy imitation, tells her experience below:

To Get

"To one store where I went to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla the clerk tried to induce me to buy their own instead of Hood's; he told me their's would last longer; that I might take it on ten days' trial; that if I did not like it I need not pay anything, etc. But he could not prevail on me to change. I told him I knew what Hood's Sarsaparilla was. I had taken it, was satisfied with it, and did not want any other.

Hood's

When I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I was feeling real miserable, suffering a great deal with dyspepsia, and so weak that at times I could hardly stand. I looked, and had for some time, like a person in consumption. Hood's Sarsaparilla did me so much good that I wonder at myself sometimes, and my friends frequently speak of it." Mrs. ELIA A. GORR, 61 Terrace Street, Boston.

Divers in the harbor of ancient Syracuse have discovered a magnificent marble building, whose highest point is only three metres under the water. The building contains great stairways and columned halls. It is believed that the edifice was once used as a bath or a temple.

A girl in Kentucky was so busy that she couldn't well spare time to go to the clergyman's to get married, and so sent a substitute. It turned out that the law forbids marriage by proxy, so she went to the altar in person, and then, reports the Cincinnati Enquirer, hurried back to work.

The Alturas Herald says J. M. Fulton of the N. C. & O. R. R., was over from Reno Monday. He says the people of this section need not feel any uneasiness about a road being built to Alturas. He said if their road is not extended to this place, another one will be, and that, too, before many moons.

A little camphor placed on every window sill will keep out flies except in the kitchen, where the temptation is stronger, and the remedy of necessity a little more stringent. But a little camphor sprinkled on the cook stove now and again will drive out the pests and keep them out, while it will also neutralize the unpleasant smell of cooking.

The body of E. M. Haskell, who has been dead for over twenty years, was recently removed from his grave at Northfield, Minn., it being purposed to put the body in another lot. When his body was exposed it was found that he had a beard twenty-three inches long. His wife said that before he died he had been shaven, and all his hair must have grown after burial.

An exchange says: A man who wanted to learn what profession he would have his son enter, put him in a room with a Bible, an apple, and a dollar bill. If he found him, when he returned, reading the Bible, he would make a clergyman out of him; if eating the apple, a farmer; and if interested in the dollar bill, a banker. When he did return, he found the boy sitting on the Bible, with the dollar bill in his pocket, and the apple almost devoured. He made a politician of him.

A San Jose dispatch says: Sullivan took many drinks at the bar before he left for Santa Cruz this morning, treating a great crowd. A stranger came in who didn't recognize the pugilist. The latter told him to drink, and the stranger demurred. Sullivan gave him a side slap and the man keeled over. Sullivan was hurried out, forced into a carriage and driven to the depot. He stated between drinks in reply to questions as to whether he would fight Slavina: "I'll fight any damn man that ever drewed breath." He left on the 10:20 train for Santa Cruz.

A HORRIBLE STORY.

Chinese Selling Human Flesh to Indians.

A gentleman who came in yesterday from Bridgeport, the scene of the recent Chinese-Indian tragedy, says that the portions of the body of the Indian chopped up by the Chinese murderers were missing for several days, when it transpired that the flesh was being sold for goat's meat over the block of a Chinese butcher shop.

It was retailed at six cents per pound, and was purchased and eaten by the Indians. They were puzzled to know what kind of meat it was, and were told it was goat's meat. They insisted that it was not, and finally it was discovered to be the flesh of the murdered Indian.

There is great excitement there, and when the Appeal's informant left the Indians were gathering to clean out the Chinese camp.—Carson Appeal.

"The Twelve Temptations."

The "second edition" of Gilmore's great spectacle, magnificently beautiful, will appear at the Opera House, Wednesday, June 24th. An exchange says:

It is noticeable that the management made no effort to feature the ballet. It is given its proper place in the spectacle to complete the work and lend it finish and grace. The charming creatures in their showy costumes, who dance like a scintillant galaxy of sylphs, are of French and Russian origin, having acquired their ideas of the "poetry of motion" in the Warsaw Theatre and Paris Grand Opera House. They contribute a fair share to the beauty of the spectacle, and their airy movements last night were luxuriated upon by the premiers and coryphees very much, as cattle luxuriate who have at some opportune moment, when no eye was near to behold, strayed into spreading fields of fresh, crisp grass. If any one, after seeing the cockatoo divertissement, had inquired into the popular phrase of the day "what is the matter with Gilmore's ballet?" the ready and generous response would have been "it's all right." The ballet is a necessary adjunct, and it is doubtful if one of these happy and skilful dances is more harmful or absolutely dreadful than a dull, stupid drama, where vice flaunts its success in the public face and virtue has to shriek for aid in the second act. The several ballets with the "Twelve Temptations" are under the competent direction of Mons. Victor Chialdo, who was brought expressly from the La Scala Theatre, Milan, Italy, to originate and direct the ballets of all William J. Gilmore's enterprises.

Reserved seats can be secured at Hodgkinson's drug store.

Closing Down a Mine.

A mining man who came down from Butte City last night, says the Salt Lake Times, said that it would be impossible for people here to conceive the blighting effect the closing down of the Anaconda mine has had on the business interests of Montana, and especially of those of the towns of Anaconda and Butte City. It has been said that the cessation of work on the mines and smelters had thrown 3,000 men out of employment, but that does not begin to tell the tale. There were that many men thrown out of employment on the mines and smelters alone, but there are at least 5,000 others who are now idle, who depend directly or indirectly on the working of the mines for their support. There are railroad men, wood choppers, charcoal burners, teamsters and men engaged in several other occupations, who have lost an opportunity of earning a livelihood all by reason of the trouble between the mine and the Montana Union railroad. Business in Butte is very dull, merchants are all complaining and people are leaving the town discouraged. What will be the termination of the trouble cannot be even conjectured, but it has given the camp a blow from which it will take some time to rally.

Mrs. Mackay's London House-Warming.

Mrs. Mackay, the Bonanza Silver Queen, is now settled in her superb mansion in Carlton House Terrace, which many people affirm to be the most beautiful interior of any private house in this luxurious city of ours. There are rumors of an entertainment in the shape of a house-warming, which is to be worthy of the surroundings. Mr. and Mrs. Mackay, though they have spent many seasons in London and become thoroughly popular here, were supposed to have had their principal residence in Paris. Now they have changed all that and have become residents of our beloved London, which, year by year, gets to be a more important rival to Paris in the affections of American citizens. All their pictures, statuary and plate, including the splendid silver dinner service, which is said to have cost Mr. Mackay $150,000, have been brought over here, and there is quite an excitement about the house-warming party, where so much splendor will be seen for the first time by a large section of London society.—London Correspondent Boston Transcript.

A Texas Story.

A Texas cattleman tells of a cat that was "snooked into the clouds," and in relating the story to the local paper, assures the incredulous editor that he is not drawing on his imagination, but dealing with cold facts. He declares he saw the remarkable occurrence, and it took place during a high wind storm. The unfortunate animal followed an almost perpendicular course and he kept his eye on it until it disappeared into the clouds. He waited for it to come down, but his wait was in vain, and he has come to the conclusion that the poor animal never again reached terra firma, either dead or alive.

One of Sam Davis' Stories.

Last Fall a man floated into Reno and showed some rock to Bill Chamberlain, at the Riverside Hotel. He showed it to Bill Thompson and Senator Boyle, and they had it assayed. It ran up to $4,000 in gold.

The man said there was a ledge eleven miles long and 200 feet wide at its narrowest point.

Then they sent the man to San Francisco away from temptation, paid his expenses at the Baldwin and kept a private detective watching him.

A few weeks ago all hands and the man went over into Plumas to locate the mine. They walked days and days and never let the man out of their sight. Whenever he attempted to go anywhere alone they got out their Winchester and halted him. But they couldn't find the mine, and so they came back after much hardship and exposure.

When they reached Reno there were three boils in the party; Senator Boyle of Storey, and two more on Bill Thompson's neck.—Carson Appeal.

Finding More Relics.

Edward Reynolds, the finder of the Donner party coin, for the past week has been searching for more hidden treasure at the site of the George Donner cabin on Alder creek. After some prospecting he struck the remains of the cabin buried under a foot or more of soil, and on screening the dirt found a number of relics, although no coin has been unearthed. The relics are pieces of bone, broken crockery, a cedar box, a few trinkets and a bronze coin used in the Presidential campaign of Harrison and Tyler. It has the bust of Harrison on one side and the representation of a log cabin on the other. There may be more valuable things yet discovered.—Truckee Republican.

The World Enriched.

The facilities of the present day for the production of everything that will conduce to the material welfare and comfort of mankind are almost unlimited, and when Syrup of Figs was first produced the world was enriched with the only perfect laxative known, as it is the only remedy which is truly pleasing and refreshing to the taste and prompt and effectual to cleanse the system gently in the Spring-time or, in fact, at any time, and the better it is known the more popular it becomes.

Appointed Guardian.

Eckley was appointed guardian of the personal estate of said Henry Rolfe, with bonds fixed at the sum of $7,500. Mr. Rolfe is at present in San Francisco under the care of Dr. Jewell.—Chronicle.

HINTS FROM A BURGLAR.
AN INTERVIEW WITH A MAN WHO DOES HOUSEBREAKING.

He Calmly Tells the Man Who Shot at Him Why He Did Not Fire in Return.
"Don't Try to Catch a Burglar"—How They Work in Gangs in Robbing a House.

Some time ago the house of Henry Kahn, on Home avenue, was entered by burglars. Mr. Kahn, lying in bed, with a bullseye flashing in his face, fired two shots at the visitors, who left the premises without carrying anything with them. "I read in the papers of the capture of a gang of burglars," remarked
Mr. Kahn, "and concluded to pay a visit to the jail and see if my burglars were there. Jailor Emmett received me graciously, and a boy behind the bars took me among the prisoners. In one of the cells a little game of cards was going on, in which the participants seemed deeply interested. A fine looking man was near by, watching it. The boy whispered me that he was Horton, the burglar, the man I was looking for.
"Do you think you ever saw me before?" I asked him.
"I don't remember," was the answer.
"I live on Home avenue," I suggested.
"Oh," said he, with some appearance of interest. "Your name is Kahn. Yes, I paid you a visit the other evening."
"You left rather suddenly."
"Oh, no; we left quite leisurely. There was no hurry. You see we were somewhat mistaken about your place. We had been told that we might pick up $5,000 or $6,000 in good stuff—jewelry, and perhaps some money. It was worth going after and taking some unusual chances to get it."
Mr. Kahn explained to the reporter that the commonplace, businesslike manner of the burglar was incomparable and altogether fascinating. He asked him how they went about the job.

HOW HE PROCEEDED.

"In the first place," said Horton, "I stationed a man at the door of your sleeping rooms, and that man never left the door from the time we entered the house until we went away. One man was stationed below and another across the street—four of us, you see. I first went into the room where a lady and a little girl were sleeping, but didn't arouse them. Then I took a look at the servant girl, but didn't wake her. When I came in the hall again the man at your door said he had heard a whispering inside and that there had been a signal from the outside that somebody in the house was up.
"When I was told this I went to your door and lay down and listened. I lay there fifteen minutes, but didn't hear anything. I finally decided to go into your room. I had looked over the house and thought the valuables must be in your room, as they were not elsewhere.
I turned the knob, put in the light and then you fired."
Mr. Kahn asked why he didn't leave then, and not wait for a second shot.
"Oh," said the burglar coolly, "I had no occasion for leaving. We felt perfectly secure. I sat down in the hall thinking you might come out. I had two guns heavier than yours, and I hesi-tated for some time whether or not to give you a slug any way."
Mr. Kahn remarked to him that if he had come into the room he might not have had everything his own way.
"I beg your pardon," said the burglar,
"neither myself nor any expert burglar
with a dark lantern need have any fears from pistol shots. The lantern properly flashed in one's face disturbs one so he doesn't know where he is shooting. I was in no danger, and you were. I only left because I thought it best to avoid serious trouble, and so when you fired
your second shot we went away."

POINTS FROM A BURGLAR.

Mr. Kahn remarked that a man of his courage and appearance—a fine looking man, with good address, who could make a success at almost anything—
ought to be in some other business.
"Oh," said the burglar, "I have always been a successful business man. I was a lawyer for some time, with a good practice, but I became involved in a little affair that withdrew me from practice. Then I took up burglary. It is a fascinating profession, and in it I have had my full share of success." He said this with his face turned squarely toward the questioner. He has a high forehead, a sincere and honest expression of countenance, blue eyes, wavy, iron gray hair and fine physique. He is about forty-five years old. Horton then went on to give advice as to the way in which people should act when called upon by burglars.
"Make a noise," he said; "as much noise as possible when you can. Don't try to catch a burglar. A burglar who knows his business is never taken while at work—always after the job is done, and he is trying to conceal or dispose of his swag."
During the conversation he said that he alone had gone through the safe of El Rauch, of South Pennsylvania street.
He was told that he had overlooked "a sleeper," something of value he might easily have taken—in this case, diamond earrings worth $700 that were in an envelope that he had thrown aside with other papers.
"I beg your pardon," said the burglar,
"I was at the job three hours. I didn't overlook anything. I went through everything with great care, and there was no such 'sleeper' as you mention. I didn't want to destroy the papers that would have done me no good, and would have given Mr. Rauch unnecessary trouble. I take pride in my profession and do my work thoroughly. I am pretty sure I didn't overlook anything in that job."—Indianapolis Journal.

What Woman Suffrage Would Do.

One of my weightiest reasons for believing in woman suffrage is that I think it would be the surest means of securing for women the simple justice of equal pay for equal work. Facts show that women alone have their interests properly guarded.—Mary L. Booth.

JENKS' DREAM.
Jenks had a queer dream the other night.
He thought he saw a prize-fighters ring,
and in the middle of it stood a doughty
little champion who met and deliberately knocked over, one by one, a score or more of big, burly-looking fellows, as they advanced to the attack. Giants as they were in size, the valiant pigmy proved more than a match for them. It was all so funny that Jenks woke up laughing. He accused the dream by the fact that he had just come to the conclusion, after trying nearly every big, drastic pill on the market, that Pierce's Pleasant Purgative Pellets, or tiny Sugar-coated Granules, easily "knock out" and beat all the big pills hollow! They are the original and only genuine Little Liver Pie.
Beware of Imitations, which contain Poisonous Minerals. Always ask for Dr.
Pierce's Pellets, which are Little Sugar-coated Pills, or Anti-Bilious Granules.
